HOSPITAL NOTES.

WOMAN'S HOSPITAL, INDIANAPOLIS.

A COLECTOMY, WITH NEW USE OF BERGEON'S METHOD.

(Reported from the Service of Joseph Eastman, M.D., by John F. Barnhill.)

Mrs. B., under the care of T. C. Donnell, M.D., Franklin, Ind., aged 20, mother of child 8 months old, referred to Dr. Eastman in Sept., 1887. History of low general health for many months. After birth of child obstinate constipation, resulting in almost complete obstruction. Relieved only by gr. ½ ext. belladonna. Noticed enlargement in left inguinal region.

Examination per vaginam: right ovary enlarged and tender. Iliac enlargement seemed to have connection with uterus. Over abdomen the tumor could be only indefinitely mapped out.

Operation, September 27.—Incision in median line. Ovaries examined. Right one size of hen's egg, and was removed; pale, and fibroid in appearance. Left ovary healthy. Enlargement in left iliac fossa elevated from pelvic floor and brought higher into wound, was found to be a pathological condition of descending colon immediately above sigmoid flexure.

Removal of diseased portion determined upon. Section of gut made 2 inches above, and 2 inches below morbid boundary line. No portion of mesentery removed. Portion exsected, 8 inches long, with appearance shown in figure, drawn by myself.

MEDICAL PROGRESS.

SUPPURATIVE PERITONITIS; OPENING, WASHING, AND SPONGING THE PERITONEUM; RECOVERY.—At the meeting of the Clinical Society of London, on October 28, MR. RICHARD BARWELL read notes of this case. The man, æt. 42, accustomed to drink a good deal, was admitted into Charing Cross Hospital June 24, 1887. Six days previously he fell and struck the left lower part of the abdomen, but seemed very little hurt. Five days afterwards he, in stooping, felt severe pain in the lower part of the abdomen; he vomited and passed a little very dark-colored urine. (Absence or presence of blood could not be verified.) He went to bed, his abdomen swelled, he passed very little urine; vomited after, and sometimes without, taking food. On admission he was placed in a warm bath; while in it he passed what may, he thinks, have amounted to a wine-glassful of urine. At 2 P.M. Mr. Barwell found him with pinched, anxious countenance, pulse small, hard, and quick, and temperature 100.4°, dry skin, tongue somewhat coated, vomiting, abdomen slightly tender, save in left iliac region, much swollen, very tympanitic quite down to the pubes; tapping it produced a peculiar thrill not like that of flatulence. A No. 12 catheter brought away no urine, even though pressed far back, but the instrument when withdrawn was full of urine deeply stained with blood. June 25. On three occasions 10 ounces of urine had been passed, at first with blood, the last sample free of blood, but slightly albuminous, specific gravity 1022; temperature 89°; pulse 130; abdomen more distended. It being evident that the man had a bad type of acute peritonitis, Mr. Barwell opened the abdomen in the middle line below the umbilicus. A large quantity of gas, not of feculent odor, escaped. No rupture of any viscus was found, but in its lower part the peritoneum contained a quantity of thick pus. There were no adhesions; parts of the intestines were congested, and the membrane was somewhat thickened. Three sponges passed into the lower part of the cavity were withdrawn covered with tenacious flocculent pus. A smooth-nozzled glass funnel was then deeply introduced, and the part of the cavity washed out with 10 pints of distilled water, temperature 99°, bringing away quantities of pus and flocculi. After sponging, a second smaller washing and sponging was directed to the upper part. The abdomen was then sewn close without any drain. The whole operation, including the anæsthetic and dressing, lasted an hour. June 26. During the night and day the patient frequently vomited a brown fluid with darker concreta; pulse rather fuller, 110; abdomen scarcely distended, and tender only in immediate neighborhood of the wound. He was lying flat, save for a small pillow under the knees; said he was quite well, and wanted to go home. July 28. The vomiting slowly decreased during the night; the bowels acted rather copiously four times. The vomiting ceased and all symptoms passed rapidly away. The rest of the history was that of rapid convalescence, the man being very importunate in requesting to be discharged. In his remarks Mr. Barwell, referring to a paper by Mr. Hancock, claimed for Charing Cross Hospital the first conception of the idea of opening the peritoneum for acute peritonitis (Lancet, 1848, "Meeting of Medical Society"). He also pointed out that this operation had been performed fourteen times, though the operator had not always known what was the precise nature of the case, and the circumstances had been very various, ulcers or rupture of some part of the intestinal tract, or of an ovarian cyst. He emphasized the impossibility of draining the lower part of the peritoneum through a wound in the front of the abdomen, and advised that no drainage-tube should be inserted immediately after operation, but that if distension recurred, to remove the lower stitches and permit escape. The presence of a tube, which could not in that position act as a drain, might be injurious rather than beneficial. In the female, drainage per vaginam would probably be the most valuable treatment as the best wash, since disinfectant lotions, strong enough to act as germicides, could not be brought into contact with any large surface of the peritoneum without injurious effects, local, systemic, or both.—British Medical Journal, November 5, 1887.

NITROGLYCERINE IN NEPHRITIS AND URÆMIA.—DR. S. A. LENTOVSKY, of the Cronstadt Marine Hospital, employed nitroglycerine (in tabloids containing each 1–100th of a grain of the drug) and hot water baths in four cases, three of which are given with minute details. In two of the patients the daily amount of urine rapidly increased, while albuminuria and dropsy disappeared, and the patient's subjective feeling and general state strikingly improved. In a third case the improvement was but fleeting, the patient dying after a short stay at the hospital. The post mortem examination showed that he had not suffered from nephritis, but from an extensive amyloid degeneration of the kidneys and spleen. The remaining case illustrates the beneficial action of nitroglycerine on uræmic symptoms. The patient, a girl of 15, was brought in almost unconscious state, with general convulsions, frequent vomiting (the ejected matter smelling of urine), extensive dropsy, stertorous frequent breathing, and small pulse. Nitroglycerine and hot baths having been at once ordered, on the next day the girl was able to sit up in her bed, ate with appetite, and generally felt comparatively well.—London Medical Record, Aug. 15, 1887.

THE ALKALINITY OF THE BLOOD IN CERTAIN DISEASES.—VON JAKSCH, of Graz, concludes that:

1. Fever lessens, in greater or less degree, the alkalinity of the blood.

2. This lessened alkalinity is a constant symptom in uræmia.

3. Diseases of the liver, in which destruction of the parenchyma occurs, produce this condition.

4. Leukæmia, pernicious anæmia, and chlorosis lessen the alkalinity of the bood.

5. Poisoning with carbon dioxide produces this result also.—Zeitschrift für klinische Medicin, Band 13, Heft 3 and 4.

CLOSE OF VOLUME IX.

The present number completes the ninth volume of THE JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION and four and one-half years of its publication. In complying with a By-law of the Association which requires the publication of the full list of permanent members of the Association every three years, we have given the list in this number as furnished by the Secretary and Treasurer of the Association. This list and the annual report of the Librarian for 1886, with a full index and title page for the volume, fill so many columns that we have but little space for other reading matter in this number. As our next issue will constitute the first number of Volume X., now is a favorable time for new subscribers to send their orders for THE JOURNAL, and it is an equally favorable time for such old subscribers as are in arrears, to pay up. And for all, whether new or old, we wish a happy New Year.

ALCOHOLIC REMEDIES IN TYPHOID FEVER.

A leading article in the Medical News of the 24th of December, 1887, in referring to "an outline of the modes of treatment in typhoid fever pursued at twelve of the chief hospitals of this country," says: "The use of alcohol is recommended by all the writers, and we have, as yet, no substitute for it in the progressive asthenia of the disease." Before knowing how much value can be awarded to this apparently united testimony in favor of alcohol in typhoid fever, it would be necessary to know how many cases of the fever any one or all of the writers alluded to, have actually treated without alcohol, that they might have a fair basis of comparison of the results. We have tried the experiment of treating typhoid fever and all other general fevers without using alcoholic remedies, both in hospital and private practice for thirty years, and have found no difficulty in finding better remedies for counteracting the asthenia of this fever, and obtaining a higher ratio of recoveries than has ever been obtained with its use. With iodine as a general alterant and antiseptic to counteract the molecular degeneration in the tissues and the blood, and the choice of cardiac and vaso-motor tonics from the class of remedies represented by digitalis, coffee, tea, strychnia, strophanthus, carbonate ammonia, camphor, etc., according to the special symptoms of each case, and vigilant attention to the local complications that are in many cases more dangerous to the patient than the general disease, with an equally vigilant attention to the proper administration of simple nourishment and pure air, we have no place or need for the use of alcohol as a remedy in these cases. And of a considerable number of intelligent and active practitioners who have tried the same experiment, though for a less number of years, I have not yet found one who was not fully satisfied with the result.

A. B. PALMER, M.D., LL.D., Dean of the department of Medicine and Surgery, and Professor of Pathology and Practice of Medicine in the University of Michigan, died on the evening of the 23d of December, 1887, aged 72 years. By the death of Dr. Palmer, the profession has lost one of its oldest and most honorable members. A conscientious and skillful practitioner, an able writer, an earnest and successful teacher, and above all a most estimable citizen and Christian; for more than forty years he has filled an important place in the profession of this country. One of the last prominent services he rendered the profession, was in ably discharging his duties as President of the Section of Pathology in the Ninth International Medical Congress, at Washington, D. C., though in impaired health at that time. Ripe in years and in fruitful labors, he has truly "entered into rest."

FRANK T. ANDREWS, M.A., M.D., lecturer on Histology in the Chicago Medical College, has recently been appointed assistant physician in the gynecological department of the Mercy Hospital of Chicago.

ADDITIONS TO THE LIBRARY FROM MAY 1, 1885, TO APRIL 29, 1886.

Mr. President:—I have the honor to present the accompanying Catalogue of additions made to the Library of the Association by donations, exchanges and subscription during the past year. The Catalogue shows that since my last report 232 distinct titles have been added, exclusive of a number of Transactions, Reports of Boards of Health and Medical Journals, foreign as well as domestic, not previously received and catalogued. The average yearly increase of the Library from 1882 to 1885, the date of my last report, has been at the rate of about 120 distinct titles, so that there has been during the last year a gain of nearly 100 per cent. in new titles. The Library now contains 2491 titles, representing about 7030 volumes. Owing to the absence of funds for binding, there are at present about 300 unbound volumes of periodicals, transactions, etc., on the shelves of the Library.

Respectfully submitted,
C. H. A. KLEINSCHMIDT, Librarian.

BOOK REVIEWS.

TREATISE ON HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY. For the use of Students and Practitioners of Medicine. By HENRY C CHAPMAN, M.D., Professor of Institutes of Medicine and Medical Jurisprudence in the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, etc., 8vo., pp. xv—945. Philadelphia: Lea Brothers & Co. 1887. Chicago: A. C. McClurg & Co.

With the works of Dalton, Flint, Foster, and Landois and Stirling in reach of the student and practitioner of medicine whose linguistic attainments go no farther than the English language, not to mention other works, one may well be surprised that one whose time is not wholly given up to physiological work "should feel it incumbent upon himself" to write a book on physiology. The author of the work under consideration, after an experience of eight years as a professor of physiology, became convinced that students and practitioners of medicine feel the want—which is to say, the lack or absence—of a systematic work on physiology, based on comparative and pathological anatomy, clinical medicine, physics, and chemistry, as well as upon experimental research. If this be the ground upon which the book was written—the lack of such a work on physiology—then the author has not labored wisely, since no such want exists nor has existed since the appearance of Sterling's translation of Landois's masterly work two years ago, not to mention other good works on physiology.

But while the author's excuse, or reason, for writing his book has no foundation in fact, the work is a good and acceptable one. It is a safe work to place in the hands of a student, and it is a very readable book. It would have been much less painful to the eyes of readers had the sheets been corrected by some one acquainted with French, Italian and German words and names. The foot-notes of the book bristle with mis-spelled words and incorrect titles. There is too much of such carelessness in our publications.

As to the matter of Dr. Chapman's book, it must be said unhesitatingly that it is good. In reading it one is often reminded, by the style, of the lecture room; the style is easy, and by its ease many pages of physiology, that must otherwise be rather dry, are made interesting. The book does not need the author's apology for having written it. As a matter of fact it is surprising that the author has written so good a book after so short an experience as a teacher.

ANATOMY, DESCRIPTIVE AND SURGICAL. By HENRY GRAY, F.R.S., etc. The Drawings by H. V. CARTER, M.D., etc., with additional drawings in later editions. Edited by T. PICKERING PICK. A new American from the Eleventh English Edition. Thoroughly revised and re edited by WILLIAM W. KEEN, M.D., etc., to which is added Landmarks, Medical and Surgical, by LUTHER HOLDEN, F.R.C.S., with additions by WILLIAM W. KEEN, M.D. 8vo, pp. 1,100. Philadelphia: Lea Brothers & Co. 1887. Chicago: A. C. McClurg & Co.

The above is a copy of a portion of the title-page of the last edition of the most popular work on anatomy ever written. It is sufficient to say of it that this edition, thanks to its American editor, surpasses all other editions. It is not the "Gray's Anatomy" of ten years ago. The student of that day would scarcely recognize it, with the large number of new illustrations, the careful change of much of the text for the better, and the many colored illustrations. With such a work in his hands the student can no longer complain that "anatomy is dry bones."

TEXT-BOOK OF THERAPEUTICS AND MATERIA MEDICA. Intended for the Use of Students and Practitioners. By ROBERT J. EDES, A.B., M.D. 8vo, pp. 532. Philadelphia: Lea Brothers & Co. 1887. Chicago: A. C. McClurg & Co.

The book before us is well printed and bound, and of convenient size. We have, however, been disappointed at the brevity of the description of the physiological action of many drugs, even of very important ones. This work must be looked upon rather as a brief handbook than as an exhaustive treatise. It certainly cannot replace H. C. Wood's well-known text-book. It is written in a pleasing, readable style, and so arranged that reference can be readily made to any subject.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HEALTH IN MICHIGAN.—For the month of November, 1887, compared with the preceding month, the reports indicate that pneumonia and erysipelas increased, and that typho-malarial fever, remittent fever, diarrhœa, dysentery, intermittent fever, and cholera morbus decreased in prevalence. Compared with the preceding month the temperature in the month of November, 1887, was considerably lower, the absolute humidity and the day and the night ozone were considerably less, and the relative humidity was slightly more. Compared with the average for the month of November in the nine years, 1879–1887, intermittent fever, typho-malarial fever, consumption of lungs, remittent fever and diphtheria were less prevalent in November, 1887. For the month of November, 1887, compared with the average for corresponding months in the nine years, 1879–1887, the temperature was about the same, the absolute and the relative humidity were slightly less and the day and the night ozone were less.

Including reports by regular observers and others, diphthreia was reported present in Michigan in the month of November, 1887, at 63 places, scarlet fever at 36 places, typhoid fever at 39 places, and measles at 18 places. Reports from all sources show diphtheria at 5 places more, scarlet fever at the same number of places, typhoid fever at six places less, and measles at six places more in the month of November, 1887, than in the preceding month.

A DECISION AS TO COSTS IN SUITS FOR MALPRACTICE.—For a considerable time a suit has been pending against a physician of Boston founded on a charge of malpractice involving some operative procedure for removal of the ovaries. It has been tried four times. The first three trials resulted in disagreement of the juries. The fourth trial recently terminated in a verdict for the defendant. But the item of most interest to members of our profession is that, at the opening of the last trial, the counsel for the defense applied for and obtained a decision of the Court, that all the costs of the four trials should be paid by the plaintiff, in case the final verdict of the jury should be in favor of the defendant. The example thus furnished in this trial is worthy of the careful consideration of all judges before whom charges of malpractice are brought, a large proportion of which have no other foundation than a desire to extort money from the defendant sufficient to secure a good fee for the prosecuting counsel.

ALBERT B. STRONG, A.M., M.D., for twelve years Demonstrator of Anatomy in Rush Medical College, and Lecturer on Anatomy in the Spring Course, has severed his connection with the institution by resignation. At a full meeting of the students of the college, resolutions were adopted highly complimentary of his ability and faithfulness as a teacher of anatomy, and expressing their regret on account of his severing his connection with the college.
